STEVEN WILSON (UK)

«Hand. Cannot. Erase.» (Kscope, Release: 27.02.2015)

Steven Wilson, four-time Grammy nominee, multi-instrumentalist and producer, has announced the release of his highly anticipated fourth studio album, «Hand. Cannot. Erase.» released on the February 27, 2015.

Following the critical and commercial success of his third solo album «The Raven That Refused To», Wilson has also announced an tour beginning in March.

His fourth and latest solo album «Hand. Cannot. Erase.» takes it all to the next level. Taking inspiration from an astonishing and chillingly true story of a 38 year-old girl called Joyce Vincent who died alone in a bedsit in Wood Green in 2003 and, through a perfect storm of tragic circumstances, remained undiscovered for over two years. «Hand. Cannot. Erase.» perfects a lyrical and melodic journey of living in the city in today's day and age.

Whilst progressive rock has always been a part of his musical vocabulary, stylistically, Wilson has never been exclusively tied to the genre, seen with his work on «Hand. Cannot. Erase.», Steven commented, “The album has given me the chance to bring in other elements of my musical repertoire”. Wilson's flag-waving fondness for the album format is simply evangelical, with «Hand. Cannot. Erase» exhibiting musical genius at its best.

Wilson has always excelled at piano ballads, and the melancholic tones of «First Regret» are of no exception, whilst «Hand Cannot Erase» provides a spontaneous energy affiliated with Wilsons recognisable style. The meticulous composition in «Happy Returns» and overall exquisite coordination of this highly anticipated album will not disappoint.
